Implimentation of Locking Hood Strut for Magnus Rear Hood.

Background

The rear hood of the Magnus device can rotate down unexpectedly it the hood is not fully opened. A new locking strut has been implimented to prevent this from occuring.

The solution is to install one of the new locking struts (252-09346A) on the rear hood, at the home side (side with the hood opening latch). The strut is to be installed shaft down, dampening body up, the same orientation as the strut it replaces. The lock is released by pressing against the side of the strut as indicated on the label applied to the strut.

When installing the strut, remember to remove the retaining pin in the socket before installing on the ball. In addition, note the orientation of the split in the circlip located inside the socket. The strut is easiest to install if you push the socket over the ball with the side opposite the split entering the socket first. Ensure you reinstall the retaining clip after installing the strut. The internal circlip is not enough to retain the ball on the socket.

This is listed as 100 label # 26 for CL & MCU devices. Priority, next visit.
